The Declaration of Sentiments of 1848

Wednesday, March 7 • 6:30 pm • Mary Hollis Clark Conference Center

Before #MeToo or the ERA there was the Declaration of Sentiments 170 years ago. Join Women's Museum of California Past Board President, Anne Hoiberg for a stimulating discussion of this famous freedom document that outlined the rights that American women were entitled to as citizens. Modeled on the Declaration of Independence, it caused much controversy and met with significant opposition to its publication. It is one of the first statements of the political and social repression of women and marked the start of the women's rights movement in the United States.
